ILLUSTRATIVE TOTAL MONTHLY FAMILY BENEFITS UNDER THE 1969 AMENDMENTS

By Jane M. Ceccarelli
Office of the Actuary

This note presents a table showing the amounts of monthly family benefits payable under the Old-Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance system to various family groups, for each possible average monthly wage.¹ The monthly benefit for each beneficiary is determined by taking specified percentages of the primary insurance amount (PIA), which is shown in a benefit table in the law and is based approximately on the formula: 81.83% of the first $110 of average monthly wage, plus 29.76% of the next $290, plus 27.81% of the next $150, plus 32.69% of the next $100. The minimum PIA is $64. Basic individual benefits, as percentages of the PIA, are as follows:

Beneficiary	Basic Benefit as Percent of PIA
Life Benefits
Retired or disabled worker	100%
Wife (or husband)	50
Child	50
Death Benefits
Widow (or widower or parent)	82½%
Child	75
Mother of entitled child	75

Retired workers aged 62-64 are eligible for benefits but with a permanent reduction of 5/9 of 1% in the PIA for each month under age 65 at the time they become entitled to benefits.

Wives (or dependent husbands) aged 62-64 are eligible for benefits but with a permanent reduction of 25/36 of 1% in the basic benefit for each month under age 65 at the time they become entitled to benefits. No such reduction applies in the case of a wife who is caring for a child entitled to benefits unless the child is a student beneficiary.

Widows aged 60-61 are eligible for benefits but with a permanent reduction of 5/9 of 1% in the basic benefit for each month under age 62 at the time they become entitled to benefits. No reduction below 75% of PIA is made in the case of a widow who is caring for a child entitled to benefits unless the child is a student beneficiary.

Disabled widows (or dependent widowers) aged 50-61 are eligible for benefits but with a permanent reduction of 5/9 of 1% in the basic benefit for each of the first 24 months under age 62 and an additional permanent reduction of 43/198 of 1% in the basic benefit for each month under age 60 at the time they become entitled to benefits.

The amount of any reduction is rounded to the next lower multiple of 10 cents, if it is not a multiple of 10 cents.

The following table shows the percentage that can be applied to the PIA or the basic individual benefit to obtain the approximate benefit payable to (1) retired workers at exact ages 62-65; (2) wife or husband at exact ages 62-65; (3) widow or disabled widower at exact ages 60-62; and (4) disabled widow or disabled widower at exact ages 50-59.

For example, a disabled widow who becomes entitled to a benefit at age 55, and whose benefit is based on her deceased husband's average monthly wage of $300, receives approximately $89 per month (60.7% x $146.20 or 73.6% x $120.70).

The benefit at age 50 is equal to 50% of the deceased husband's PIA, except in those cases where the minimum benefit applies (husband's PIA under $78). Since the law provides that a minimum basic benefit of $64 is payable to a sole survivor, the minimum benefit payable to a sole surviving disabled widow (or dependent widower) at age 50 is $38.90, which exceeds 50% of the PIA in the range from $64 to $76.80.

The maximum family benefit—as shown in the benefit table in the law—is approximately equal to 80% of the first $436 of average monthly wage, plus 40% of the remainder, but it is not less than 150% of the PIA.

In determining the amount of the monthly family benefit, it is first necessary to compute separately the benefit for each entitled beneficiary in the family, rounding each to the next higher multiple of 10 cents, if it is not a multiple of 10 cents. The individual benefits are then added to arrive at a total family amount.

However, if the total family amount so derived is greater than the maximum family benefit shown in the benefit table, the amount paid to each secondary beneficiary must be reduced proportionately. No reduction is made in the benefit payment for an entitled worker, but only in the payments for his dependents or for his survivors. For example, assume that the PIA of a worker age 65 with a wife and one child is $104.50. His benefit is $104.50, and the benefit for his wife and child is 50% of $104.50 or $52.25 each, which is rounded to $52.30. This gives a family total of $209.10, whereas the maximum family benefit shown in the benefit table is $156.80. The worker's benefit is not reduced; therefore, the wife and child may receive only $52.30 altogether. Each would receive one-half of $52.30, or $26.15, which is rounded up to the next higher multiple of 10 cents, or $26.20, giving a total family benefit of $156.90, or 10 cents more than the maximum shown in the benefit table.
